

| PUBLISHED IN ISSUE | CONTRIBUTOR |
|---|-------------|
| 14. Information about a company's financial performance can provide a more accurate picture of its performance and, thus, its value. This information is provided by the company's financial statements, which are prepared by the company's management and audited by an independent accounting firm. The financial statements are prepared in accordance with the generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) and are subject to review by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). | |

+
 New books highlighted
 Existing books highlighted

